IV. Consideration and adoption of the report

26. At the 10th meeting, on 13 May 2011, under agenda item 7 (b), the Chair presented to delegations a meeting summary prepared in thorough consultations with delegations, which is reproduced in paragraphs 27 to 37 below.

27. In the course of their discussions, participants emphasized the importance of the continued and full implementation of the Programme of Action as the main framework for measures within the activities of the international community to prevent, combat and eradicate the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons in all its aspects, as well as the International Tracing Instrument.

28. Participants reaffirmed their respect for and commitment to international law and the purposes and principles enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations and recalled, inter alia, those purposes and principles referred to in the preamble to the Programme of Action.

29. Participants focused their discussions on the themes of marking, record-keeping and cooperation in tracing, national frameworks, regional cooperation and international assistance and capacity-building.

30. Participants recognized that weapons marking, record-keeping and tracing are mutually reinforcing activities that should be an integral part of national efforts to control small arms and light weapons. They also noted the enabling role that effective national frameworks, active regional and international cooperation, the provision of assistance upon request and national capacity-building play in supporting full implementation of the International Tracing Instrument and relevant provisions of the Programme of Action.

31. In discussions under agenda item 6 (a), participants exchanged information and shared experiences on national marking policies and practices and implementation challenges and opportunities. Participants also discussed good practices, lessons learned and practical measures to enhance the reliable and adequate marking of small arms and light weapons.

32. In discussions under agenda item 6 (b), participants exchanged information and shared experiences on national policies and practices relating to record-keeping and implementation challenges and opportunities. Participants also exchanged views on good practices and lessons learned and considered practical measures relating to accurate and effective record-keeping.

33. In discussions under agenda item 6 (c), participants exchanged information and shared experiences on cooperation in tracing, including relevant policies, processes, practices and tools, and implementation challenges and opportunities. Participants also exchanged views on good practices, lessons learned and practical measures to strengthen effective cooperation in tracing small arms and light weapons.

34. In discussions under agenda item 6 (d), participants exchanged information on national policies and practices and implementation challenges and opportunities regarding effective national frameworks to support the full implementation of the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument.

35. In discussions under agenda item 6 (e), participants exchanged information and shared experiences regarding regional cooperation in support of the full implementation of the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument.

36. In discussions under agenda item 6 (f), participants exchanged information and shared experiences on implementation challenges and opportunities relating to the provision of international assistance, upon request, and capacity-building to support the full implementation of the Programme of Action and the International Tracing Instrument.

37. During discussions and without prejudice to the views of other participants, some participants indicated that, in their view, certain issues were important for the implementation of the Programme of Action and/or the International Tracing Instrument. On those issues, other participants expressed a different opinion. Those issues included the following:

(a) The desirability of including ammunition for small arms and light weapons within the relevant international frameworks, and the need to address the transfer of such ammunition across borders;

(b) The marking, record-keeping and tracing of ammunition for small arms and light weapons, on which a number of experts during this meeting shared national practices and pointed out challenges;

(c) The possibility of a legally binding instrument on marking, record-keeping and tracing;

(d) Measures to strengthen States' capacity to prevent and combat the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons across borders, including regional cooperation, technical assistance and training and joint exercises;

(e) Linkages between terrorism, organized crime, trafficking in drugs and precious minerals and the illicit trade in small arms and light weapons;

(f) Demand and supply issues;

(g) Civilian possession of small arms and light weapons;

(h) The transfer of relevant technologies to developing States in a non-discriminatory manner;

(i) Linkages among security, armed violence, development and human rights;

(j) The potential role of further open-ended meetings of governmental experts as part of the follow-up mechanisms of the Programme of Action;

(k) Other issues within the Programme of Action which did not fall within the scope of the main themes of this meeting, including effective stockpile management, weapons disposal, illicit brokering and the effective management of small arms and light weapons throughout their life cycle.

38. The Chair drew participants' attention to a summary, prepared under his own responsibility, of the views expressed during the meeting (A/CONF.192/MGE/2011/CRP.3).

39. Also at the 10th meeting, on 13 May 2011, the Open-ended Meeting of Governmental Experts on the Implementation of the Programme of Action to Prevent, Combat and Eradicate the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects considered its report and adopted it by consensus.
